THERE was laid on the table of the Le gislative Council on Wednesday a series despatches relating to a proposed change in the system of auditing the accounts of the September, 1888. Lord KNUTSFORD bas "been led to the conclusion that the present system leaves much to be desired." The one, and the system referred to is not that of Hongkong in particular but of the Crown Colonies in general. The impeachment detail of this system is as follows :-

The small scale upon which the audit establishment of a single colony must necessarily be fixed renders it difficult to secure a complete professional training for the subordinate officers of the department; whilst security." In the absence of any proper great difficulty has always been experienced in obtaining as Colonial Auditors men fully qualified by special technical preparation for the important duties of the position. In order rightly to appreciate the bearings of the proposal as applied to this Colony it is necessary to note what the present system is. The office of Auditor-General is combined with that of the Colonial Secretary. The Auditor is therefore immediately and the control of a dark staircase, though the rest of the bearties of the proposal as applied to this Colonial Secretary. I am of opinion that the proposal would not be without its advantages, and that, as its adoption appears at present to be intended only as an experiment, there could be little objection to its trial. At the same time, I think there are manifest advantages in retaining the local audit, and my reasons are these. In the first place, greater promptitude in checking overcharges is possible than if all the accounts were forwarded to England, and action delayed until replies had been received. Moreover the additional labour thrown upon local Departments by having to ment, Whether a permanent local Auditor farnish in daulicate all vouchers, contracts, tenders, powers of attorney, letters of authority for appoint merts and increases of pay, &c., would involve a considerable increase of clerical labour; and I doubt whether the Public Works, Police, Medical and toined. SECOND GIMERANA MEETING: A Gynkhaus meeting under the suspices of the Pole Club was held on the Race Course yes torday afternoon. The meeting was to have been held on Saturday last, but had to be postponed on account of the weather. This postponement to the middle of the week had, unfortunately, a bad effect on the attendance, which was not nearly so large as that of the last meeting. In this matter of course the Club had no choice, as though a postponement till next Saturday, in the ordinary course of events, would have been more convenient and profitable, the intervention of St Andrew's Ball this evening, for reasons which need not here be mentioned, but will nevertheless be understood, made the holding of the meeting to-morrow afternoon an impossibility It is all the mere to be regretted that the meetported by the un-official members of Council and ing was not well attended as the carrying out of an interesting and well-arranged programme The British gunboat Pigmy arrived in Colombo was well worthy of support. In the various on the 9th and the Plover on the 10th inst. They events large fields were the rule and several of are on their way out to join the China Squadron. them were well contested.
